Murdoch University	No website at this time	Yes, but only in certain circumstances: If the online unit meets the same standards and outcomes as the required unit here and the university considers it equivalent, we will accept it. For school leavers, however, their final grading examination for university entrance will be what our university accepts.	Yes, but only in certain circumstances: For those units considered equivalent, pass/fail would be accepted for consideration of awarding credits (aka 'advanced standing'); however, it will require some additional documentation and processing to be able to evaluate candidates in consideration of them gaining a place. Any unit graded as pass/fail would need to be clearly identified as being as a result of COVID-19 and we would not consider a "pass" grade in assessment of the academic performance of the candidate for the purposes of awarding a place in the program.	Yes, but only in certain circumstances: If the School considers the unit equivalent to ours, it would then provide cause for advanced standing to be granted.
